DIXON REMAINS WET BY BIG MAJORITY TWO THOUSAND WOMEN EXERCISE RIGHT

BOTH "WET" AND "DRY" LEADERS WERE SURPRISED BY THE RESULT—317 MAJORITY POLLED AGAINST MAKING DIXON TOWNSHIP LOCAL OPTION TERRITORY—VOTE WAS 2276 TO 1959—WOMEN VOTE "DRY" 1184 TO 872.

LENOX AND ARBOGAST WON IN THEIR CONTESTS

Former Had Close Race With C. H. Russell for Commissioner of Highways While Frank Arbogast Defeated All Opponents for Collectorship by Exceptionally Big Vote—Poll Tax is Abolished.

THE WINNERS.

Assistant Supervisor—Luther Burket.
Assessor—J. A. Whitish.
Town Clerk—F. D. Palmer.
Commissioner of Highways—William H. Lenox.
Collector—Frank Arbogast.
Constable—Henry Garnett.

The majority of the voters of Dixon township, including over 2,000 women, expressed their satisfaction with the way in which the liquor business has been conducted in this city during the past four years, and yesterday, by a majority of 317 out of 4,157 votes cast, voted to keep Dixon in the "wet" column. The vote was a decided surprise to both "wet" and "dry" leaders, especially to the latter, who had expected the women's vote to swing the city to the dry column.

872 ladies of the township voted wet while 1184 voted "dry." The majority of "wet" male votes was increased from 180 in 1910 to 649, 1404 men voting to retain saloons against 755 who voted against the liquor traffic. The full vote will be found in a table elsewhere in this issue of the Telegraph.

Poll Tax Abolished.

The other question of public policy, that of the abolition of the poll tax, was also voted heavily, but the local option issue of course attracted the most attention, many of the women voting on nothing else but the anti-saloon feature. The poll tax was abolished by a vote of 1854 to 1056, the total vote being:

Men	1218	732
Women	536	324
Total	1854	1056

For Town Offices.

As was expected the socialist ticket did not prove real opposition to Luther Burket, J. A. Whitish or F. D. Palmer, candidates for assistant supervisor, assessor and town clerk respectively, although the socialist vote was heavy.

W. H. Lenox was re-elected commissioner of highways over Charles Russell in a very close fight, the successful candidate's majority being but 166; while Frank Arbogast was chosen tax collector by an overwhelming majority, his total vote being 2436 against 734 for Charles Curran, 313 for Edward B. Fisher and 154 for Charles W. Brierion.

Henry Garnett was elected constable over Henry Morey, 774 to 690, the vote being:

Wyoming—G. W. Thompson.

There will be but one new face on the board of Supervisors when the body is called together in May to organize for the coming year, the new member being Austin O'Malley of Marion township who will succeed Charles F. Welty. Mr. Welty was not a candidate for re-election, and Mr. O'Malley, who is a well known resident of that township, was elected without opposition.

All of the supervisors who had opposition were returned to the board by their constituents although some of the contests were close. Ralph E. Hanson of East Grove defeated Homer Parsons for the place; James Buckley of May was re-elected over Frank Kellen; C. C. Buckaloo of Nelson defeated A. J. Hollenbeck; in Hamilton Joseph Bauer was re-elected over Frank Mau while in Willow Creek John H. Grove was returned over G. W. Durbin.

There will be but 24 members of the board this year due to the discovery that Dixon township's loss in population had deprived it of the right for three assistant supervisors cutting the number to two.

Proclamation

The election yesterday was conducted with more intelligence and good feeling than any I have ever observed. I attribute this largely to the participation of the ladies. Now that we are to continue to have licensed saloons in this community, while some of our neighboring towns are to be dry, the fear has been expressed that we will be more or less troubled by thirsty visitors, resulting in disorder, drunkenness, etc.

I want to assure the citizens of this city that nothing of the kind will be permitted. We shall endeavor to have even more strict rules and regulations governing the saloons in the future than we have had in the past. Also we shall hope to inaugurate a plan for handling the unruly that is likely to result in the least possible disorder. That is to say, when an arrest has been made and the guilty fined, and he is without funds to pay the fine, we shall provide him with a good stiff broom and a cart and let him sweep the streets of Dixon under the supervision of Mr. Duffy—and if this does not produce the desired result, we shall hope to provide a rock pile.

I have every reason to believe that the proprietors of our saloons—in fact, all good citizens—will co-operate with us in this matter and that we shall continue to have the same model town in the future that we feel we have had in the past.

W. B. BRINTON,
Mayor.

BEAUTIFUL INTERIOR IN NEWLOCAL HOTEL

NACHUSA HOUSE FURNISHINGS TO BE LUXURIOUS—TO HAVE LINCOLN ROOM.

Work on rebuilding the hotel on the hill is going on at a great rate with Mr. Rice personally supervising the contractors all of whom are local business firms.

In the fact that Mr. Rice, a man of wide experience in business affairs frankly states that he finds it advantageous to give his business to our local houses is material for consideration and also an endorsement of the custom of representative Dix on citizens who have repeatedly demonstrated the fact that our markets afford ample variety and figure costs on a really successful competitive basis.

Three carloads of furniture will be used in refurbishing the house, the contract for which Mr. Rice has awarded the Keyes, Ahrens Ogden Co.

The woodwork through the entire building will be white enamel, therefore the furniture of dull finished mahogany will produce a pleasing contrast, in the office and lobby there will be big, deep davenport, large chairs and rockers comfortably upholstered in leather, all "Karpen" made. The large writing room will be a treat to the traveling man here will be found elegant mahogany writing tables with plate glass tops and ample space for copy and correspondence and affording privacy.

Fifty chambers will be furnished uniformly in the "Adam" Period cane panel effect, beautiful dull mahogany dressers, fine metal beds, luxurious box springs, a fine desk in every room, comfortable rockers, chairs, etc.,

The room, now famous because of its many occupants who figured in history, chief among whom was Lincoln, will be called The Lincoln room and will be furnished in simple elegance with real mahogany high, four poster bed, mammoth dresser, ladies toilet table, pier mirrors, chairs and rockers uniquely decorated.

The dining room will be delightfully inviting and restful; mahogany will prevail here also, exquisite buffets of the "Jacobean" designs, mahogany square dining tables and fine leather seat chairs.

The furniture for the thirty-five room wing to be built on the south will not be shipped for some time but that for the present building will be received during the next two weeks.

SCALP TROUBLE FOR OVER TEN YEARS

Small Bunches on Scalp. Itched, Formed Scale. Hair Came Out. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured in Two Months.

268 Harrison St., Elyria, Ohio.—"My case was a scalp trouble. I first noticed small bunches on my scalp which commenced to itch and I would scratch them and in time they got larger, forming a scale or scab with a little pus, and chunks of hair would come out when I would scratch them off. It caused me to lose most of my hair. It became thin and dry and lifeless. I was troubled for over ten years with it until it got so bad I was ashamed to go to a barber to get my hair cut.

"I tried everything I could get hold of, but received no cure until I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment when the scale commenced to disappear. The way I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment was to wash my scalp twice a day with warm water and Cuticura Soap and rub on the Cuticura Ointment. I received benefit in a couple of weeks and was cured in two months." (Signed) F. J. Busher, Jan. 28, 1913.

Why not have a clear skin, soft white hands, a clean scalp and good hair? It is your birthright. Cuticura Soap with an occasional use of Cuticura Ointment will bring about these coveted conditions in most cases when all else fails. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T., Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

WRESTLING MATCH

AT MORRISON

Tonight at the armory in Morrison Young Zybisco of that city meets Fred Ozar of Chicago. The two are very evenly matched and are very fast heavyweights. They both tip the scales at about 185 pounds and are in good condition, so a fast meeting is assured.

Zybisco enjoys a splendid local reputation while Ozar ranks very well among the younger Chicago wrestlers so doubtless those Dixon fans attending will be well repaid for their trip to that city.

FITZ

Red McGhee says:

They're all against us, ain't they, Fitz? all out to put you on the fritz, these fastana czars. You can't come back no more, they say —too old, they rule, you've had your day, can't class with newer stars. Well, Bob, these geezers may be right. That old time wallop in your right might come a wee bit slow. This Gunboat's got an awful mit. They say he's Ty Cobb on the hit—and some whale, too, y'know. You're fifty-one, Bob, ain't you? That is a little old, I guess, for bustin' round a ring. You mauled this K. O. Sweeney guy? Sure, Bob, I know that ain't no lie, but that's like drinkin' sling, Old Jeff, no doubt, could do that, too, but when he met "The Smoke," he blew. You remember how that was? This comeback bee gets buzzing strong, but take my tip, Bob, you'll go wrong unless you let it buzz. You've grabbed your great big chunk of fame; you've had your flier at the game. You went strong while you went. Don't drag your record out no more—you can't tack nothing on your score it's two-bits to a cent. Let that old name Fitzsimmons rest back there among the fight game's best—the boys that had the punch. Don't be a falldown, comeback slob. You'd better leave it "Fightin' oBb" for good, Fitz. That's my kunch.

DIXON OPERA HOUSE

There is a character in "The Shepherd of the Hills" the dramatization of Harold Bell Wright's novel, which comes to the Dixon opera house one night, Friday April 10th called "Preaching Bill." Despite the roughness of his character, he has a brand of philosophy that in its way is quite equal to that of "David Harum."

MOB'S VICTIM VERY LOW

Rev. Spurgeon Assaulted for Anti-Catholic Talk, Near Death.

Denver, Colo., April 7.—The condition of Rev. Otis L. Spurgeon of Des Moines, Ia., the Baptist minister who was kidnapped and beaten by a dozen men, who took exception to his anti-Catholic lectures, took a turn for the worse, and physicians fear he may not recover. He was seized with several hemorrhages and physicians admitted his condition was serious. During his lucid moments at the hospital Spurgeon stated that he was knocked down and stamped on, that he was lashed with the buckle end of heavy leather straps, that one member of the mob fired a revolver at him while another attempted to mutilate him with a knife. The minister's legs are cut near the groin, according to reports from St. Luke's hospital. No arrests have been made. Spurgeon declared he can identify some of his assailants. He insists they are members of the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic secret organization.

CHICAGO WOMEN PILE UP BIG VOTE

Suffragists Fail to Elect Members of Their Own Sex to Council.

JERSEY ELECTS REPUBLICAN

G. O. P. Man Wins Over Democrat in Race for Congress—New York for Constitutional Convention.

Chicago, April 8.—One hundred and eighty-five thousand newly enfranchised women who went to the polls exploded all theories on the woman in politics. They voted on partisan lines, helping to defeat eight of nine independent candidates, failing to elect a single one of the nine candidates of their own sex and returning a Democratic majority to the city council.

An estimate places the total vote cast at 500,000—315,000 men and 185,000 women. The number of persons who voted on the "little" ballot propositions is much smaller.

Early returns indicated the tremendous interest which women had taken in the aldermanic campaign, failed to show a single final result in which women had turned the tide of sentiment expressed by the vote of the men.

The failure of women to support women candidates was one of the surprises of the election. Marion H. Drake was defeated by Alderman John J. Connelley in the First ward by a margin of four to one.

Early returns on the questions on the little ballot indicate that the comprehensive subway plan is defeated. The women in particular voted against the proposition three to one.

The colors of the anti-liquor army were swung high in Illinois and, with the aid of women's votes, the "drys" made substantial gains. Out of a total of 2,652 saloons involved in the "wet" and "dry" clash, 1,100, as nearly as could be estimated, had been blotted out by men and women voters.

The extent of the anti-saloon victory may be better understood when it is stated that 19 more Illinois counties went into the "dry" column. There had been 30 counties free of the saloon previous to the voting, and now the total is 49 out of 102 counties in the commonwealth.

Springfield Stays "Wet." The "wets" carried Springfield, the capital of the state, which furnished the hottest fight. The majority was 3,500, and in this instance both men and women voted the "wet" ticket.

G. O. P. Man Wins in Jersey.

Paterson, N. J., April 8.—Republicans gained and Democrats lost a seat in the house of representatives as the result of a special election in the Seventh New Jersey district. Dow H. Drukker, a contractor of Passaic, was elected representative in congress to succeed the late Robert L. Brenner, by more than five thousand plurality over James J. O'Byrne, a Democrat personally endorsed by President Wilson.

Figures compiled by the Republican county campaign committee gave the total vote, with two out of 112 districts missing, as follows:

Drukker (Rep.)	10,450
O'Byrne (Dem.)	5,143
Demarest (Soc.)	5,118
Whitehead (Prog.) estimated	600

Drukker made his fight on a platform opposed to the legislation wrought by the Wilson administration, particularly on the tariff, while O'Byrne called on voters to send him to congress as a token of their approval of the president's policies.

Leading Democrats, however, refused to accept the result of the election as a repudiation of Wilson's policies. Mr. Drukker said he had not announced his position on the canal tolls repeal question. His district is one of the centers of silk and woolen spinning.

Democrat Wins at Boston.

Boston, April 8.—James A. Gallivan, Democrat, was elected to congress in the Twelfth district to fill the unexpired term of Mayor James M. Curley, resigned. He received a majority in a triangular contest. The vote was:

Gallivan, 8,708; Frank L. Brier, Republican, 3,973; James D. Connolly, Progressive, 3,592.

For Constitutional Convention.

New York, April 8.—Delegates to a state constitutional convention will be elected next fall and the convention will convene in April, 1915. The voters of the state so decided at the polls. The vote in New York city determined the result. As a result of the activity of Tammany in Manhattan and its allies in the four other boroughs the city rolled up an affirmative majority of 55,916, nearly half of which came from Manhattan. It is thought there was an adverse vote of 35,000 upstate.

Democrats Win Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—Henry L. Jost, Democrat, was re-elected mayor of Kansas City over four other candidates by a majority estimated to exceed nine thousand votes. The Democratic candidates for comptroller, treasurer and police judge also were successful. Mayor Jost carried thirteen of the sixteen wards.

The Nonpartisan ticket, pledged to establish commission government and headed by Clarence A. Burton, was seen.

DEMENTTOWN

A glance into the editorial sanctum of this sheet this a. m. Would lead one to believe that there had been an election in Dixon Tuesday.

It behooves liquor dealers of Dixon now to be very, very good.

And having answered 'phone calls the greater part of the night during which we were also attempting to foot a hundred or so columns of figures, we do not feel any funnier than the guy who has the tooth ache.

At any rate all will agree that Dixon is on the map, but whether the distinction is one which will benefit the town is still being argued by a lot of people who evidently don't realize that the polls closed at 5 o'clock last evening.

Hear the shoe factory whistle?

And very fervently we offer thanks that there is not another election in the immediate future.

And in the meantime the eyes of a lot of anxious folks in other cities will be turned beseechingly toward the state supreme court.

Now that it's all over let's all get together, put our shoulder to the wheel and boost for Dixon.

LIVED ON RAW EGGS

Mr. Richard's Experience With Different Diets. Peaches and Buttermilk for Three Years.

Cecilton, Md.—Mr. George Richards, of this place, during the past 12 years, has probably tried more different diets than the average person would ever use in a lifetime.

What he has to say about his experiments, must therefore be highly interesting to anyone suffering from indigestion or stomach troubles of any kind.

He says: "For more than 12 years, I suffered with stomach troubles, and paid hundreds of dollars for doctor bills and medicines. I was also operated on for piles.

I lived on dried peaches and buttermilk for nearly three years. The only thing that would not give me pain was raw eggs. I was a physical wreck. I could not sleep, and was as near crazy as a man could well be.

I must say that after taking two 25-cent packages of Theodor's Black-Draught, it did me more good than all I ever spent for other medicines.

I have been working daily on the farm ever since, and I am as hard as iron." This purely vegetable remedy has been in successful use for more than 70 years. Try it. But be sure that it's "Theodor's."

KEOKUK DAM PART OF 'TRUST'

Congressman Offers Evidence on Contention to House Committee.

Washington, April 8.—Representative Rainey, Republican, of Illinois, told the house rules committee that not a consumer of electrical energy in the Mississippi valley was benefited by the Keokuk dam. He charged that the so-called Keokuk dam monopoly "has fastened its fingers upon the throats of the people of St. Louis for a hundred years to come" unless there is remedial legislation. Mr. Rainey urged a congressional investigation of the Keokuk & Hamilton Water Power company, the Mississippi River Power company and the companies operating them, charging a monopoly.

Man 88 Takes Own Life.

Dedham, Mass., April 8.—Disappointed in the failure of the town to purchase the home of his boyhood for a high school site, Charles H. Miller, a dealer in stationery, eighty-eight years old, killed himself by inhaling illuminating gas.

PULL OUT THE COTTON.

Don't go thru the world with your ears full of it. It's a needless expense, and contrary to nature.

You might as well permit your hands to be tied, your tongue bridled, or your eyes bandaged. While on OCCASION either procedure might be commendable, on the whole these organs are given you for a purpose, with a think pan to sift impressions. If you're on a jury don't be afraid to hear the evidence—you're not forced to believe it.

Many an innocent man would be executed, and many a rogue go free, if only one side were heard. If you're painting to do and you've not already enlightened yourself upon the subject, pull out the cotton and give us a chance at the same time. Maybe our paints and wall varnishes cost more per gallon than his—maybe it's cheaper for you in the end.

Maybe it's cheaper NOW—Who knows? Anyway, pull out the cotton; limber up. Come in. Shine up your think pan and bring it along. We can please you on anything in home Decorations. Wall Paper, Mureco, Wall Paint, Alabastine, Paint Brushes, etc. Delivered at your door on short notice.

MANY PERILED IN TUNNEL

Leak in Bore Under Chicago River Endangers Passengers on Car.

Chicago, April 8.—Panic prevailed among the 40 passengers of two trolley cars which were passing through the LaSalle street tunnel when a 36-inch water main broke near the north approach of the tunnel. The water rushing into the bore, short-circuited one car and left the passengers stranded and in darkness. Almost immediately the passengers learned that water was lapping the wheels of the car, and their first thought was that there had been a break in the tube and that the river was pouring into the tunnel. "We will all be drowned!" screamed one woman. "Save us! Save us!"

Passengers jumped from the car into the water and tried to wade toward the north exit. They found the rush of water too strong for them and, turning, fled for the south opening. All were soaked through and had minor bruises as results of their dash for safety.

APRIL 8 1914

THE PEOPLE HAVE SPOKEN.

At yesterday's election the people of Dixon township were asked to express their opinion as to whether they wished their community to become anti-saloon territory. The people have spoken. They say, in terms that are unmistakable, that they do not. Their voice is law, since it has been ordained that the citizens of this great union should rule themselves, and by the same token, since the basic principle of our political faith is the rule of the people, it only leaves, for the citizen who considers himself worthy of the name American, acceptance of the decision with quiet and dignity. This, we are sure, they will do in Dixon.

The men and women who believed that Dixon would be a better place in which to live without saloons were undoubtedly sincere in their belief, and their activities were prompted by commendable public spirit, for whether they were right or wrong, they were honest, and most of them are of that sturdy, strong-willed, God-fearing, moral class of citizenship that have since the founding of the republic played a big and worthy part in the building up of this nation. They have done what they could to uphold their beliefs. If they were wrong concerning local conditions, they will share with all in whatever fruits the carrying out of the adopted policy may bear. If they were right, the responsibility is not theirs. They seem to be in the minority in Dixon, but returns from the majority of the other cities in the state show that hundreds of thousands share their belief.

The majority of the voters of Dixon believe that the high licensed and carefully restricted saloon is the safest and most satisfactory answer and that as long as we have the evil with us Dixon's present policy cannot be improved upon. No one will argue that liquor is a good institution. Any one of the owners of saloons in Dixon will tell you they have no good word to offer in defense of drinking intoxicating liquors. The idea of the defenders of the legitimate saloon is that as long as the stuff will be sold in and out of Dixon, it should be sold in such a manner that the youth, the girl, the drunkard and the dangerous may be denied it and the revenue may be used to reduce the tax burden.

The majority of the wets were voting in a way they believed to be the best for Dixon, just as surely as the dries were. Dixon is made up almost entirely of the finest kind of people on earth and most of the many hundreds who voted for the retaining of the saloons did what they conscientiously thought was for the benefit of all the people. They have been victorious even above their rosiest dreams. They undoubtedly will be delighted. They surely have won a victory against great odds. But there is one thing we will ask them to remember, and that is this: A campaign of this sort is apt to leave raw sores. It is always a great disappointment to the opposition. This is no time to jeer and crow. That would endanger the relationship of the great family sheltered among these hills, and bitterness and friction is deplorable and a dangerous condition to be allowed to develop. Remember, you have had worthy opposers, who have conducted their campaign in a manner that has been particularly fair and broad-minded. They deserve the most courteous treatment in return.

To the local option supporters the same advice is not out of place, for the trial has been a fair one and the fight on both sides has been above-board. Hard words nor personalities will not avail now. If it is any consolation, we predict that within ten years there will not be a saloon in Illinois and, in fact, any observer of the trend of sentiment can see that the time is not far distant when prohibition will smother the liquor traffic of this nation.

A GREAT RESPONSIBILITY.

We consider the wet victory of yesterday in Dixon a great compliment to the city officials of our city who, through the co-operation of the saloonmen, have made and kept Dixon so well governed and clean of the troubles that usually attend wet cities that the people here have declared themselves in favor of a continuance of the present policy. The officials and saloonmen have shown Dixon during the past three years that there is such a thing as a regulated saloon.

But with the voting dry of practically every city in this part of the state at yesterday's election the burden is going to be heavier and the people of Dixon have taken upon themselves a responsibility that is enormous, as they will discover within a few months, if we are not badly mistaken.

With most of the neighboring communities and cities saloonless, Dixon is apt to become a bright and alluring beacon for every sot and rowdy within a radius of fifty miles, and this is something that should be avoided, if possible. The saloonmen should be, and we believe are, satisfied with the trade of temperate, respectable and law-abiding residents of this immediate vicinity, and Dixon does not welcome the presence of the rowdies and the bums who may come excursionsing this way in search of booze and trouble.

If such a condition is allowed to develop in Dixon, we believe it will be ended very shortly by the uprising of the wrath of Dixon, the calling in of the saloon licenses and the blotting out of the business.

The only way in which a reign of terror, drunken rowdism and rampant vice that will besmirch the fair name of Dixon and make this city the dumping ground for the scum of a hundred cities is to watch keenly for every appearance of it and when it shows up in any degree whatsoever, hit it, and hit it hard. Jail every hilarious taster of the flowing bowl. Fine them and fine them plenty, and railroad them out of town. An especially efficient police force will be needed and the rule of the law in Dixon must be so strict as to be radical. We must discourage unwelcome visitors from the start and so advertise abroad that Dixon intends to remain as clean as it has in the past. Dixon is no receptacle for the dregs and the filth. Womanhood and girlhood is safe here now. Let us see that we keep it so.

The Tobacco Habit

Oh, Clarence, do not learn to use those foulest weeds that grow; the foolish youth who smokes or chews is storing future woe. For years I've spent my hard-earned wheels to keep my briar fed; I've always smoked save when at meals, or in my truckle-bed. And t'other day the sawbones came, and took my works apart, and said, while pawing o'er my frame, "You have a cabbage heart. It's fierce," he said; "I never seed such wild, spasmodic thumps; unless you quit the noxious weed you'll surely bump the bumps." And now I've quit; life's on the blink, the world is drear, my friends; and I can only sit and think of fancy Turkish blends. My nervous system is a scream, the tears stream down my cheek, and in my fevered sleep I dream of burley and perique. My agony is too intense to be before you lugged; I feel like twenty-seven cents, and every penny precluded. So, Clarence, do not learn to smoke, and keep no pipes about; believe me, son, it is no joke, when you must cut it out.

DRYS MAKE INROADS IN STATE ELECTION

GREAT GAINS MADE FOR LOCAL OPTION TERRITORY BY VOTE OF WOMEN TUESDAY.

BIG CITIES IN DRY COLUMN

In Chicago Women Weilded Great Influence in Municipal Election, Though None Were Put in Office. (Associated Press)

Chicago, Apr. 8.—The votes of the women of this state have closed over 1000 saloons and added 16 counties to the 30 already dry, and the result shows that the sale of intoxicants will be barred in approximately 200 of the 300 townships where local option was an issue before the election was lost to the anti-saloon forces, but several cities, which have been wet heretofore, remained in the wet column.

At the municipal election in Chicago yesterday the women divided as follows: democrats, 55,000; republicans, 51,000; progressives, 20,000; independents, 13,000. The rest of the vote was scattered. In the Chicago municipal election no woman candidate was elected. "Bathhouse John" Coughlin was re-elected in the first ward over Marian Drake. The comprehensive subway was defeated by the women's votes. The Chicago city council is overwhelmingly democratic, as it has been for several years.

TELEPHONE OFFICE WAS VERY BUSY PLACE

15,000 CALLS ANSWERED BY GIRLS IN 90 MINUTES LAST NIGHT

GIRLS COULD NOT STAND STRAIN

Were Relieved Every Ten Minutes During the Rush Hurs

The operators of the Dixon Home Telephone company are glad that wet and dry elections are not an every day occurrence.

The company estimates that from 6 to 7:30 last evening between 14,000 and 15,000 calls were answered. The magnitude of answering these calls can be better imagined when it is known that on the average day of 24 hours about 11000 calls are handled.

Seventeen operators, all the switchboard will accommodate, were at work and as the strain on operators at the busiest positions was too great for human endurance, an extra force was on hand to relieve those operators at short intervals.

For a time the load was nearly to the maximum capacity of the exchange, a ten per cent increase would have blown the fuses and rendered the exchange inoperative for a few minutes until the load had subsided and repairs could be made.

Y. M. C. A. CANDY CASE BURGLARIZED

CANDY VALUED AT $7 AND $3 IN CASH WAS STOLEN

The discovery was made this morning that sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning the candy case at the Y. M. C. A. building had been burglarized of candy to the value of $7 and $3 in cash which had been left in the cash drawer. Whether the robbery was committed by some fellow who had remained hidden in the building until all had left Saturday night and had then made his exit through the side door or whether he obtained entrance through a window, is not known. Sec Bailey is working in the matter and hopes to apprehend the guilty one.

SERIOUS OPERATION

Word has been received by Dixon relatives of the very serious illness of Morris, the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Heidenrich of Portland, Ore., formerly residents of this city.

Last Sunday the little fellow underwent an operation for the removal of his left kidney. Some weeks ago he received an injury which necessitated this operation.

Today Mrs. Heidenrich received a letter saying that the child was much better and that hopes were entertained for his recovery.

LIQUOR DEALERS TO KEEP WATCHFUL EYE

WILL CONDUCT BUSINESS SO THAT NONE NEED FEEL ASHAMED

That the liquor dealers of Dixon will do everything in their power to maintain conditions in this city in such a manner that none of the 2276 voters who voted for their retention will be sorry for the action taken, was the statement made by John H. Loftus, president of the Dixon Liquor Dealers' Association this morning.

Mr. Loftus, after thanking the ladies who voted with the 1404 men for keeping Dixon in the "wet" column, stated that he and his associates fully appreciate the responsibility placed upon them by the vote of the people, and that even a more watchful eye will be kept on the business hereafter than in the past.

He stated that the members of the local liquor dealers association would within a few days organize its own vigilance committee to look into the condition of the people who may come here from neighboring cities, that the black list of those cities would be secured and as far as possible the Dixon saloons would not sell to or harbor those undesirables of other towns. Mr. Loftus further stated that the association itself will watch its own members and if anyone of the number should overstep the bonds the association will ask the council to revoke that members license.

CHAPTER IV—Mrs. Sara Wrاندall and Hetty attend the funeral of Challis Wrاندall at the home of his parents. Sara had always been treated as an interloper by the snobbish Wrاندall family, but the tragedy seems to draw them closer together.

CHAPTER V—Sara Wrاندall and Hetty return to New York after an absence of a year in Europe. Leslie Wrاندall, brother of Challis, makes himself useful to Sara and becomes greatly interested in Hetty.

CHAPTER VI—Hetty is greatly pained at Sara's evident desire to encourage Leslie's attentions. Sara sees in Leslie's infatuation possibility for revenge on the Wrاندalls and repatriation for the wrongs she suffered at the hands of Challis Wrاندall by marrying his murderer into the family.

CHAPTER VII—Leslie, in company with his friend, Brandon Booth, an artist, visits Sara at her country place. Leslie confesses to Sara that he is madly in love with Hetty.

CHAPTER VIII—Sara arranges with Booth to paint a picture of Hetty. Booth has a haunting feeling that he has seen Hetty before. Looking through a portfolio of pictures by an unknown English artist, he finds one of Hetty. He speaks to her about it. Hetty declares it must be a picture of Hetty Glynn, an English actress, who resembles her very much.

The neighborhood, so that he could devote himself almost entirely to the consummation of this particular undertaking. Moreover, it meant that Vivian's portrait was to be temporarily disregarded.

Sara Wrاندall was quick to recognize the first symptoms of jealousy on the part of her brother-in-law. The new idol of the Wrاندalls was in love, selfishly, insufferably in love as things went with all the Wrاندalls. They hated selfishly, and so they loved. Her husband had been their king. But their king was dead, long live the king! Leslie had put on the family crown—a little jauntily, perhaps—cocked over the eye a bit, so to speak—but it was there just the same, annoyingly plain to view.

Sara had tried to like him. He had been her friend, the only one she could claim among them all. And yet, beneath his genial allegiance, she could detect the air of condescension, the bland attitude of a superior who defends another's cause for the reason that it gratifies Nero. She experienced a thrill of malicious joy in contemplating the fall of Nero. He would bring down his house about his head, and there would be no Rome to pay the fiddler.

Brandon Booth took a small cottage on the upper road, half way between the village and the home of Sara Wrاندall, and not far from the abhorred "back gate" that swung in the teeth of her connexions by marriage. He set up his establishment in half a day and, being settled, betook himself off to dine with Sara and Hetty. All his household cares, like the world, rested snugly on the shoulders of an Atlas named Pat, than whom there was no more faithful servant in all the earth, nor in the heavens, for that matter, if we are to accept his own estimate of himself. In any event, he was a treasure. Booth's house was always in order. Try as he would, he couldn't get it out of order. Pat's wife saw to that.

As he swung jauntily down the tree-lined road that led to Sara's portals, Booth was full of the joy of living. Sara was at the bottom of the terrace, moving among the flower beds in the formal garden.

At the sound of his footsteps on the gravel, Sara looked up and instantly smiled her welcome.

"It is so nice to see you again," she said, giving him her hand.

"My heart's in the highlands," he quoted, waving a vague tribute to the heavens. "And it's nice of you to see me," he added gracefully. Then he pointed up the terrace. "Isn't she a picture? 'Gad, it's lovely—the whole effect. That picture against the sky—"

He stopped short, and the sentence was never finished, although she waited for him to complete it before remarking:

"Her heart is not in the highlands."

"You mean—something's gone wrong—"

"Oh, no," she said, still smiling; "nothing like that. Her heart is in the lowlands. You would consider Washington square to be in the lowlands, wouldn't you?"

"Oh, I see," he said slowly. "You mean she's thinking of Leslie?"

"Who knows? It was a venture on my part, that's all. She may be thinking of you, Mr. Booth."

"Or some chap in old England, that's more like it," he retorted. "She can't be thinking of me, you know. No one ever thinks of me when I'm out of view. Out of sight, out of mind. No; she's thinking of something a long way off—or some one, if you choose to have it that way."

She smiled upon him with half-closed, shadowy eyes, and shook her head. Then she arose.

"Let us go in. Hetty is eager to see you again."

They started up the terrace. His face clouded.

"I have had a feeling all along that sneer rather than have this portrait painted, Mrs. Wrاندall. A queer sort of feeling that she doesn't just like the idea of being put on canvas."

"Nonsense," she said, without looking at him.

Hetty met them at the top of the steps. The electric porch lights had just been turned on by the butler. The girl stood in the path of the light. Booth was never to forget the loveliness of her in that moment. He carried the image with him on the long walk home through the black night. (He declined Sara's offer to send him over in the car for the very reason that he wanted the half-hour of solitude in which to concentrate all the impressions she had made on his fancy.)

The three of them stood there for a few minutes, awaiting the butler's announcement. Sara's arm was about Hetty's shoulders. He was so taken up with the picture they presented that he scarcely heard their light chatter. They were types of loveliness so full of contrast that he marveled at the power of nature to create women in the same mold and yet to model so differently.

As they entered the vestibule, a servant came up with the word that Miss Castleton was wanted at the telephone, "long distance from New York."

The girl stopped in her tracks. Booth looked at her in mild surprise, a condition which gave way to an instant later to perplexity. The look of annoyance in her eyes could not be disguised or mistaken.

"Ask him to call me up later, Watson," she said quietly.

"This is the third time he has called, Miss Castleton," said the man. "You were dressing, if you please, ma'am, the first time—"

"I will come," she interrupted sharply, with a curious glance at Sara, who for some reason avoided meeting Booth's gaze.

"Tell him we shall expect him on Friday," said Mrs. Wrاندall.

"By George!" thought Booth, as she left them. "I wonder if it can be Leslie. If it is—well, he wouldn't be flattered if he could have seen the look in her eyes."

Later on, he had no trouble in gathering that it was Leslie Wrاندall who called, but he was very much in the dark as to the meaning of that expressive look. He only knew that she was in the telephone room for ten minutes or longer, and that all trace of emotion was gone from her face when she rejoined them with a brief apology for keeping them waiting.

He left at ten-thirty, saying good night to them on the terrace. Sara walked to the steps with him.

"Don't you think her voice is lovely?" she asked. Hetty had sung for them.

"I dare say," he responded absently.

"Give you my word, though, I wasn't thinking of her voice. She is lovely."

He walked home as if in a dream. The spell was on him.

Far in the night, he started up from the easy chair in which he had been smoking and dreaming and racking his brain by turns.

"By Jove!" he exclaimed aloud. "I remember! I've got it! And tomorrow I'll prove it."

Then he went to bed, with the storm from the sea pounding about the house, and slept serenely until Pat and Mary wondered whether he meant to get up at all.

"Pat," said he at breakfast, "I want you to go to the city this morning and fetch out all of the Studios you can find about the place. The old ones are in that Italian hall seat and the late ones are in the studio. Bring all of them."

"There's a devil of a bunch of them," said Pat ruefully.

He was not to begin sketching the figure until the following day. After luncheon, however, he had an appointment to inspect Hetty's wardrobe, ostensibly for the purpose of picking out a gown for the picture. As a matter of fact, he had decided the point to his own satisfaction the night before. She should pose for him in the dainty white dress she had worn on that occasion.

While they were going over the extensive assortment of gowns, with Sara as the judge from whom there seemed to be no appeal, he casually inquired if she had ever posed before.

He watched her closely as he put the question. She was holding up a beautiful point lace creation for his inspection, and there was a pleading smile on her lips. It must have been her favorite gown. The smile faded away. The hand that dangled the garment before his eyes suddenly became motionless, as if paralyzed.

In the next instant, she recovered herself, and, giving the lace a quick flip that sent its odor of sachet leaping to his nostrils, responded with perfect composure.

"Isn't there a distinction between posing for an artist, and sitting for one's portrait?" she asked.

He was silent. The fact that he did not respond seemed to disturb her after a moment or two. She made the common mistake of pressing the question.

"Why do you ask?" was her inquiry. When it was too late she wished she had not uttered the words. He had caught the somewhat anxious note in her voice.

"We always ask that, I think," he said. "It's a habit."

"Oh," she said doubtfully.

"And by the way, you haven't answered."

She was busy with the gown for a time. At last she looked him full in the face.

"That's true," she agreed; "I haven't answered, have I? No, Mr. Booth, I've never posed for a portrait. It is a new experience for me. You will have to contend with a great deal of stupidity on my part. But I shall try to be plastic."

He uttered a polite protest, and pursued the question no farther. Her answer had been so palpably evasive.

The Girl Stopped in Her Tracks.

that it struck him as bald, even awkward.

Pat, disgruntled and irritable to the point of profanity—he was a privileged character and might have sworn if he felt like it without receiving notice—came shuffling up the cottage walk late that afternoon, bearing two large, shoulder-sagging bundles. He had walked from the station—a matter of half a mile—and it was hot. His employer sat in the shady porch, viewing his approach.

The young man drew a chair up to the table and began the task of working out the puzzle that now seemed more or less near to solution. He had a pretty clear idea as to the period he wanted to investigate. To the best of his recollection, the Studios published three or four years back held the key.

He selected the numbers and began to run through them. He was searching for a vaguely remembered article on one of the lesser-known English painters who had given great promise at the time it was published but who dropped completely out of notice soon afterward because of a mistaken notion of his own importance. If Booth's memory served him right, the fellow came a cropper, so to speak, in trying to ride rough shod over public opinion, and went to the dogs. He had been painting sensibly up to that time, but suddenly went in for the most violent style of impressionism. That was the end of him.

There had been reproductions of his principal canvases, with sketches and studies in charcoal. One of these pictures had made a lasting impression on Booth: The figure of a young woman in deep meditation standing in the shadow of a window casement from which she looked out upon the world apparently without a thought of it. A slender young woman in vague reds and browns, whose shadowy face was positively illuminated by a pair of wonderful blue eyes.

He came upon it at last. For a long time he sat there gazing at the face of Hetty Castleton, a look of half-wonder, half-triumph in his eyes. There could be no doubt as to the identity of the subject. The face was hers: the velvety, dreamy, soulful eyes that had haunted him for years, as he now believed. In no sense could the picture be described as a portrait. It was a study, deliberately arranged and deliberately posed for in the artist's studio. He was mystified. Why should she, the daughter of Colonel Castleton, the grand-niece of an earl, be engaged in posing for what evidently was meant to be a commercial product of this whilom artist?

Turning from a skillfully colored full page reproduction, he glanced at first casually over the dozen or more sketches and studies on the succeeding pages. Many of them represented studies of women's heads and figures, with little or no attempt to obtain a likeness. Some were half-draped, showing in a sketchy way the long graceful lines of the half-nude figure, of bare shoulders and breasts, of gauze-like fabrics that but illy concealed impressive charms. Suddenly his eyes narrowed and a sharp exclamation fell from his lips. He bent closer to the pages and studied the drawings with redoubled interest.

Then he whistled softly to himself, a token of simple amazement. The head of each of these remarkable studies suggested in outline the head and features of Hetty Castleton! She had been Hawkrigh's model!

The next morning at ten he was at Southlook, arranging his easel and canvas in the north end of the long living room, where the light from the tall French windows afforded abundant and well-distributed light for the enterprise in hand. Hetty had not yet appeared. Sara, attired in a loose morning gown, was watching him from a comfortable chair in the corner, one shapely bare arm behind her head; the free hand was gracefully employed in managing a cigarette. He was conscious of the fact that her lazy, half-alert gaze was upon him all the time, although she pretended to be entirely indifferent to the preparations. Dimly he could see the faint smile of interest on her lips.

Hetty came in, calm, serene and lovelier than ever in the clear morning light. She was wearing the simple white gown he had chosen the day before. If she was conscious of the rather intense scrutiny he bestowed upon her as she gave him her hand in greeting, she did not appear to be in the least disturbed.

"You may go away, Sara," she said firmly. "I shall be too dreadfully self-conscious if you are looking on."

Booth looked at her rather sharply. Sara indolently abandoned her comfortable chair and left them alone in the room.

"Shall we try a few effects, Miss Castleton?" he inquired, after a period of constraint that had its effect on both of them.

"I am in your hands," she said simply.

He made suggestions. She fell into the position so easily, so naturally, so effectively, that he put aside all previous doubts and blurted out:

"You have posed before, Miss Castleton."

She smiled frankly. "But not for a really truly portrait," she said. "Such as this is to be."

He hesitated an instant. "I think I recall a canvas by Maurice Hawkrigh," he said, and at once experienced a curious sense of perturbation. It was not unlike fear.

Instead of betraying the confusion or surprise he expected, Miss Castleton merely raised her eyebrows inquiringly.

"What has that to do with me, Mr. Booth?" she asked.

He laughed awkwardly.

"Don't you know his work?" he inquired, with a slight twist of his lip.

"I may have seen his pictures," she replied, puckering her brow as if in reflection. "Oh," she cried, with a bright smile of understanding. "I see! Yes, I have a double—a really remarkable double. Have you never seen Hetty Glynn, the actress?"

"I am sure I have not," he said, taking a long breath. It was one of relief, he remembered afterward. "If she is so like you as all that, I couldn't have forgotten her."

She is quite unknown, I believe she went on, ignoring the implied compliment. "A chorus girl, or something like that. They say she is wonderfully like me—or was, at least, a few years ago."

He was silent for a few minutes, studying her face and figure with the critical eye of the artist. As he turned to the canvas with his crayon point, he remarked, with an unmistakable note of relief in his voice:

"That explains everything. It must have been Hetty Glynn who posed for all those things of Hawkrigh's."

"I dare say," said she indifferently.

CHAPTER IX.

The Ghost at the Feast.

The next day he appeared bright and early with his copy of the Studio. "There," he said, holding it before her eyes. She took it from his hand and stared long and earnestly at the reproduction.

"Do you think it like me?" she inquired innocently.

"Amazingly like you," he declared with conviction.

She turned the page. He was watching her closely. As she looked upon the sketches of the half-nude figure a warm blush covered her face and neck. She did not speak for a full minute, and he was positive that her fingers tightened their grasp on the magazine.

He Was Watching Her Closely.

"The same model," he said quietly. She nodded her head.

"Hetty Glynn, I am sure," she said, after a pause, without lifting her eyes. Her voice was low, the words not very distinct.

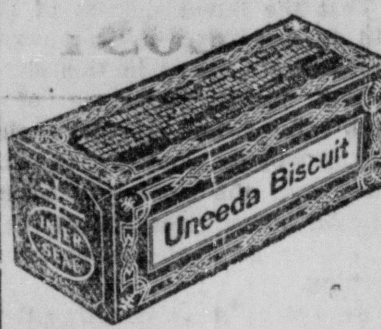

He drew a long breath, and she looked up quickly. What he saw in her honest blue eyes convicted her.

Sara Wrاندall came into the room at that moment. Hetty hastily closed the magazine and held it behind her. Booth had intended to show the reproduction to Mrs. Wrاندall, but the girl's behavior caused him to change his mind. He felt that he possessed a secret that could not be shared with Sara Wrاندall, then or afterward.

Moreover, he decided that he would not refer to the Hawkrigh pictures again unless the girl herself brought

THERE WITH AN EXPLANATION

One Suspects That Bald-Headed Barber Had Been in That Tight Situation Before.

A western senator complimented an actor on his fine head of hair and said he would like to know the actor's secret.

Smoothing his glossy locks, the actor replied:

"The secret of a good head of hair is still unknown. The number of bald-headed barbers one sees is proof of this, because a bald head is a serious drawback to a barber's trade. How many bald barbers, offering hair growers to customers, are asked why they don't use the tonic themselves."

Laughing, the actor continued:

"I know a bald barber in New York, though, who has a ready, if not altogether convincing, answer for questions of that sort."

"A friend of mine, on being offered a bottle of tonic one day at this fellow's shop, exclaimed:

"What a nerve you have! So bald yourself, yet recommending a hair tonic!"

"Ah," the barber replied, "it is on my assistant, whose fine head of hair you see, that we use the hair tonic. I, on the other hand, am experimenting with a new depilatory cream. Just look at my skull—smooth as a billiard ball!"

Studying Problem of Age.

The brittle arteries of old age which the doctors call atheromatos, and which my many are considered an unavoidable and more or less physiological accompaniment of advancing years, are responsible directly and indirectly for a very considerable portion of the annual death rate. Those sanguine folks who hold that death could and should be postponed to the hither side of one hundred years—that centenarians should be the rule rather than the rare exception—are coming more and more to question the necessity for this early rusting out of the body plumbing. Metchnikoff's famous studies which led him to the conclusion that sour milk was the elixir of longevity, started the ball rolling afresh, and since then the physiological laboratories have been busily at work studying the problem from all sorts of angles.—New York Evening Post.

NOSTRILS AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD? TRY MY CATARRH BALM

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely; Dull Headache Goes; Nasty Catarrhal Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves with the sweat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

SEIDEL DEFEATED AT MILWAUKEE

Mayor Gerhard A. Bading, Non-Partisan, Victor Over Former Socialist Executive.

POWER IN COUNCIL GONE

Fail to Get Number of Aldermen Needed to Block Financial Matters—Results of Other Elections in State.

Milwaukee, April 8.—Mayor G. A. Bading, Non-Partisan, was elected over Emil Seidel, ex-mayor and late Socialist candidate for vice-president, by a majority of 8,000.

In this landslide against Socialism the six hold-over Socialist aldermen-at-large, were carried out of office, and also the hold-over city attorney named in the Socialist election.

In some of the strong Socialist wards aldermen probably have been chosen by the Socialists, but in six of the 23 the Socialist candidates were eliminated at the primary. The new council probably will be composed of 31 Non-Partisans and six Socialists.

Non-Partisan Judge Chosen. One of the most dubious problems of the Non-Partisans was the election of a circuit judge. W. T. Turner, the sitting circuit judge, being a candidate against a Socialist. The returns, however, indicate that Turner was elected.

The Non-Partisans elected with Mayor Bading were: City comptroller, Louis P. Kotecki; treasurer, Joseph P. Carney; attorney, W. H. Timlin, Jr. Elections in State.

The elections in the state were chiefly marked by fights on the license question, as the new Non-Partisan law prevents the appearance of party candidates on municipal tickets. The "drys" gained considerable ground, but most of the gains were in country precincts, and the larger cities showed no change in policy.

Superior Mayor Re-Elected. Superior, Wis., April 8.—Joseph S. Konkell, mayor of this city, was the victor in a recall election, by a scant 89, out of a total of more than five thousand votes. The supporters of his opponent, J. R. Hile, threaten a contest, charging irregularities.

Kenosha Re-Elects Mayor. Kenosha, Wis., April 8.—M. J. Scholey, the most unique figure in Wisconsin politics, who rose from bartender to mayor of Kenosha, scored another big personal victory when he defeated William M. Farr by a majority of 492 votes.

TOLL HEARINGS ON APRIL 9

Senate Body Agrees on Fifteen Days to Hear Arguments.

Washington, April 8.—Fifteen days of public hearings, beginning on April 9, on the Sims bills to repeal the Panama tolls exemption, was decided upon by the senate canal committee.

Administration supporters, pressing for a minimum of delay in getting the Sims bill out of committee, professed to be satisfied with the plan 15 days of hearings, provided added time was not reserved for consideration of the bill after hearings are over.

Thrush Out Amendments. The hearings will give opportunity for thrashing out various amendments, principal among them one to reaffirm the sovereignty of the United States over the Canal zone and its right under the treaty to grant an exemption to coastwise ships, if it desired to do so.

UNDERWOOD BEATS HOBSON

Latter Concedes Defeat on Democratic Senatorial Nomination.

Birmingham, Ala., April 8.—Oscar W. Underwood, for nearly twenty years representative of the Ninth Alabama district in the lower house of congress, swept the state in his fight with Congressman Richmond Pearson Hobson for nomination to the United States senate, according to returns from the Democratic primaries.

SUFFRAGE UP IN SENATE

Amendment Once Defeated Is Reported Second Time for Action.

Washington, April 8.—The woman suffrage amendment recently defeated in the senate was again reported to that body by the suffrage committee, and was placed on the calendar. Senator Hoke Smith gave notice that he would raise a point of order against it.

POSSE KILLS TWO BANDITS

Bank Robbers Engage in Fight With Officers.

New Hazleton, B. C., April 8.—Two bandits were killed here in a battle between a band of robbers and a large posse of citizens, following the holding up of the Union Bank of Canada branch. Six men held up the bank and four got away with $1,100 cash. A posse is pursuing them.

Vote Denied French Women. Paris, April 8.—French women have not the right to vote, according to a decision pronounced by the court of cassation.

ASKS CARRANZA'S AID

U. S. Requests Rebel to Help Spaniards in Mexico.

Announced at Juarez, However, He Refuses to Modify Villa's Deportation Order.

Washington, April 8.—Vigorous representations went from the American government to General Carranza, Mexican constitutionalist chief, urging that he modify the order of General Villa expelling Spaniards from Torreon.

The gravity of the problem was increased by unofficial information that this Villa policy of expulsion of Spaniards was to be of general application; that if the constitutionalists captured Saltillo, Monterey and other places they would drive out the Spaniards and seize their property.

An attempt to carry out such a plan would meet with determined opposition from the United States. Officials say the Spaniards are in Mexico under the provisions of a treaty conferring the right of residence, trade and travel, and anything like a sweeping deportation would be in violation of the principles of international law, and would form a proper subject of resentment by the Spanish government, even to the extent of hostile measures if need be.

Juarez, April 8.—Despite expressions of Washington's displeasure at the expulsion of the Spanish colony from Torreon the purpose of the rebel leaders was unshaken.

Juarez, April 8.—That another battle is in progress at San Pedro with the result undetermined was officially announced by Robert Periquera, constitutionalist diplomat agent. A large federal force under Generals Maas and DeMoure, who were on the way to Torreon, were intercepted by General Hernandez, but refused to surrender and are fighting desperately. Velasco has not joined Maas and DeMoure.

Vera Cruz, April 8.—Fighting is general around Tampico, say official reports. The rebels captured Dona Cecilia. American women and children who lived at Dona Cecilia were removed to Tampico. Rear Admiral Mayo does not expect a general attack on Tampico, as the rebels have no artillery. It is reported, however, the rebels expect to take that city.

PACKERS TO ESCAPE ACTION

Federal Inquiry Fails to Show Anti-Trust Act Violation.

Washington, April 8.—Unless department of justice agents uncover new evidence in connection with the alleged control by the so-called American beef trust of beef imported into the United States from the Argentine republic, it is not probable that action will be taken under the Sherman anti-trust act against the packers to curtail their South American activities. Investigation of the contracts which American packers have for refrigerating space on steamships plying between Argentine and the United States, it was said, however, failed to show anything unusual or in contravention of the anti-trust act. According to these reports, there are nine slaughtering and refrigerating establishments in Argentine, of which the Chicago packers control five.

M'DERMOTT CENSURE URGED

House Judiciary Body Adopts Report Recommending Reprimand.

Washington, April 8.—The house judiciary committee adopted the report of the subcommittee, which recommended that Representative McDermott of Chicago be censured by the house for alleged acts of "grave indiscretion" disclosed by the inquiry of the house lobby committee. Representative Clayton, chairman, in announcing the decision of the committee, declared the vote was "practically unanimous." The vote was 8 to 6 for the adoption of the subcommittee report.

WILSON TO VISIT ON EASTER

Will Go With Wife to Hot Springs for Her Health.

Washington, April 8.—President Wilson and his family will spend Easter at Hot Springs, Va., leaving here Thursday night and returning next Monday morning. The chief purpose of the trip is to benefit the health of Mrs. Wilson, who is slowly recuperating from the effects of slipping on a White House rug some time ago and being externally injured. Monday she was able to go out of doors for the first time.

May Richardson Released.

London, April 8.—May Richardson, the militant suffragette, who was sentenced to six months' imprisonment on March 12, for damaging Velasquez's "Rokeby Venus," in the national gallery, was released from Holloway jail to undergo operation for appendicitis.

Oglesby Is Elected Justice.

Lincoln, Ill., April 8.—Former Lieut. Gov. John G. Oglesby was elected justice of the peace in Elkhardt township, Logan county. He had no opposition on the Republican ticket.

New Counterfeit Discovered.

WHEN THE PROOF CAN BE SO EASILY INVESTIGATED.

Hilles Makes Public the Plan by Which South Will Lose
Delegates

89 VOTES ARE TAKEN OFF

Party Conventions in All the States Are Urged to Ratify the Proposal by Republican National Committee.

New York, April 8.—Charles D.
Hilles, chairman of the Republican national committee, made public the proposed plan to decrease the percentage of the southern and territorial representation in the Republican national convention in 1916 and thereafter from approximately thirty-five per cent of the total voting strength to less than sixteen per cent, as provided in resolutions adopted by the committee at its meeting last December.

Under the plan proposed the decrease in the number of votes will aggregate 89 and the loss will be suffered by the following:

	Votes lost.
Alabama	8
Arkansas	3
Florida	4
Georgia	11
Louisiana	8
Mississippi	8
New York	2
North Carolina	3
South Carolina	7
Tennessee	3
Texas	16
Virginia	8
Hawaii	4
Porto Rico	2

Ways to Pick Delegates.

A special committee composed of Charles B. Warren of Michigan, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho and Gov. Henry D. Hatfield of West Virginia, drafted the report of the action taken in December, which embodies other resolutions adopted by the national committee. These guarantee:
"Recognition in the call to be issued for the next national convention of the right of any state to provide for the election of delegates in direct primaries.

"The right of any state to elect all delegates from the state at large, or part from the state at large and part from congressional districts."

These provisions were adopted with a view of eliminating contests before the national body such as have produced dissension.

The special committee urges ratification of the plan in state conventions of the party before January 1, 1915, rather than by a special national convention, to choose delegates for which, it was decided, existing laws provided no methods.

Under the plan presented a congressional district not entitled to two delegates on the vote cast in the presidential election in 1908 will qualify for two if 7,500 or more votes are cast for the Republican nominee in the congressional election next fall.

U. S. TO PAY $25,000,000

Washington and Bogota Reach Agreement.

Bogota, Colombia, April 8.—The treaty between the United States and Colombia settling the Panama controversy was signed at the state department of Colombia by the American minister, Thaddeus A. Thomson, and representatives of the Colombian government, who had full power to act.

Washington, April 8.—It is understood that the treaty provides that the United States shall pay to Columbia a lump sum of $25,000,000 in full payment for the loss suffered by the latter country when Panama seceded and transferred the canal zone to the United States and for exclusive rights to the United States for the construction of an interoceanic canal through Colombian territory and for a coaling privilege on the Colombian coast.

MEMBERS OF MOB UNKNOWN

Police Fail to Establish Identity of Men Who Beat Preacher.

Denver, Colo., April 8.—Officials of Adams county gave no promise that legal action would be taken soon against the kidnapers of Rev. Otis L.
Spurgeon. Announcement was made by the sheriff's office that investigation had yielded no adequate information as to the identity of the persons who forcibly took Spurgeon from his hotel here last Sunday night.

Reports from the hospital were that Rev. Spurgeon continued to show improvement.

would sustain these men if they could get on. It's partly in the material, more in the making. This line is right in both respects.

PINEAPPLES

Practically all the Pineapples offered for sale in Dixon in the natural state are from Cuba, with a few from Florida. They are all pulled green to stand shipping this far. They ripen off the stem and consequently lose that fine Pineapple flavor.

The Hawaiian canned Pineapple that is so well known all over the United States for its fine flavor, is a pine that has grown and ripened in the Hawaiian Islands and canned right there, immediately after being picked. Your own canning cannot get the same flavor, because you cannot get a Pineapple here that compares with the Hawaiian Pine, (it being too far to ship from there). Hawaiian canned Pineapple will be very cheap this year; we believe you can buy better and cheaper already canned, than you can buy the fresh fruit and can it.

A special agent will be at the store next week to tell you more about it. See him.

Spring Time

IS

Time. Make your floors, doors and furniture look as good as new, by a coat of CHI-ENAMEL. It is made in all colors, and you need not be an expert to apply
it. For your auto apply one coat and it will stand the mud and rain.
